1. Claims 12-23 are pending.
2. Applicant is notified the species election has been removed.
3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 12-15 and 17-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US Patent Application Publication 2004/0091500 A1.

The '500 application teaches a method of treating or preventing an allergic disorder by administering a derivative of an allergenic protein having reduced allergenic activity, wherein said protein is administered with adjuvant, every two weeks and within the range of 1-50 times and at concentrations of 0.0001 to 1000 micro grams, wherein said protein administered is either Bet v1 or Vesputa. It is noted claim 23 is included since in order to prevent an allergic disease the allergenic activity of the derivative would necessarily be less than 50% of the wild type.

The claimed invention is anticipated by the prior art teachings.
